TEN CENTS PER WEEK

Fall Race Meet Opens Today on Fair Grounds Track

ATTENDANCE ALL EXPECTED BY PROMOTERS

List of Entries Comprises Fastest Horse Flesh Ever Seen Contesting on Tracks of Western Kentucky or This Section.

Before a crowd that surpassed the expectations of the officials the fall races had an auspicious opening this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the fair grounds. The band played, and the horses pranced, and in a quick start the races were on while the crowd cheered. A fine program was offered for this afternoon, but each day will see big entries in the races. Today was "ladies day," as all ladies and children were admitted free, and they certainly took advantage of the opportunity to see the races.

The track was in splendid condition, as the sprinkling of the track made it fast and the water carts had been used all around the grand stand which eliminated the dust and made the races enjoyable. The weather was not too warm, and promoters are assured that the races will be a success. Low rates are being taken advantage of and today there was a constant stream of visitors from the adjoining counties. Illinois was well represented, too, while quite a few lovers of fine horseflesh made the trip from Tennessee.

When seen this morning all of the horse owners were jubilant over the prospects of a successful meet. Each owner was confident that his horse would be a winner, and this morning the horses were exercised with much caution so that they will be ready for the heats. Guy Lee, of Union City, is confident that "Redfoot" and "Cayce Jones" will be heard from. So confident of having fair treatment and fair play Mr. Lee shipped his horses all the way from Wheeling, W. Va., to the Paducah stables.

The runners are in dandy trim for this afternoon. The books closed last night at 6 o'clock and there are enough entered to make all of the races warm. The running races for this afternoon are:

CITY HALL IN FEAR.

Around the city hall there was fear today, and scouts were sent out to spot any night riders that might attempt to burn the hall. The cause for the excitement was because City Jailer Wade Brown cut his tobacco crop, which grew beside the police station. There were about forty plants and Jailer Brown expects to have fifteen pounds of the weed after it has cured. After the plants had withered sufficiently the jailer placed them on sticks and hung them in the attic, where they will be left to cure. Jailer Brown chose the attic because he thought the night riders would have to beat the officials on the first floor before the top floor was gained.

OLD, OLD STORY IS BELIEVED CAUSE OF LEWIS MURDER

Murray, Ky., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—According to statements of people living in the neighborhood where the killing of Will Lewis by Victor and Fred Jones took place Sunday afternoon, the old, old story of a woman with whom one of the Jones and Lewis had kept company, was the cause of the killing. The trouble is said to have dated back three years when Fred Jones and Will Lewis fought at a meeting house where services were in progress. Lewis having accompanied the girl to the church.

Sunday the Jones boys and Lewis were at a baptizing. The Jones boys were teasing the Lewis boy, when Will Lewis interfered. During the quarrel, Will Lewis struck Fred Jones with his fist and just as a bystander attempted to come between the men, two shots were fired and Lewis fell dead with a bullet in his heart and another in his back.

The younger brother of Lewis had stooped to pick up a stick and a shot was fired at him, but went wild. An examination of the body and clothing of Will Lewis revealed the fact that he was unarmed and did not have even a pocket knife.

The Jones boys are sons of Polk Jones, a well-to-do farmer. They are in jail without bond on a charge of wilful murder.

THE WHEAT CROP MOVES EARLIER THAN LAST YEAR.
St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 15.—According to the general freight agents of the northwestern railroads, which run through the wheat belt of the northwest, the wheat crop movement has just started and it is from two to three weeks earlier than last year.

Reports received from Duluth and Superior show that the movement the last two days of last week indicated receipts of from 500 to 600 cars daily in those cities for transshipment down the lakes, but the percentage of No. 1 northern wheat is said to be greater than usual.

Tobacco Market.
Fifty hogheads of tobacco were sold at the association salesroom today at prices ranging from 8 to 11 cents. E. J. O'Brien was here today and looked over the samples in the association salesroom, but made no purchases. W. B. Blakemore, tobacco warehouseman of Martin, Tenn., was here today looking after some sales of tobacco.

MAINE ELECTION RESULTS IN FAVOR OF REPUBLICANS

Hughes Will be Renominated For Governor of New York Today.

Democrats Have Not Agreed on Candidate.

CHARLES MURPHY IN CONTROL.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 15.—Late returns indicate Fernald's plurality for governor is 8,000. John P. Swazey and other Republicans for congress were elected, according to late returns.

Hughes Is Certain.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Hughes opposition is dead and his nomination is expected on the first ballot today. Chairman Woodruff was quoted to this effect.

Tammany in Control.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 15.—After an all night conference, Democratic leaders are undecided on a governorship candidate. Tammany leader Murphy is in absolute control of the convention. A dark horse, it is said, will be sprung at the appropriate time and nominated. Alton B. Parker's speech was devoted principally to a denunciation of the extravagance of the national administration. The natural result, he said, is excessive tariffs, upbuilding of giant fortunes, denounced by the president. Parker thought it strange that in such denunciation he did not suggest modification of tariffs to prevent the creation of similar fortunes.

He criticized Republicans for non-enforcement of the law.

Capron Elected Captain.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 15.—In the meeting the 1908 football men of the University of Minnesota this afternoon, George Capron, the great drop kicker of the 1907 team, was elected captain for this season.

Residence Robbed.

While the family was asleep last night the screen door to the home of R. A. Pike, engineer at the Illinois Central shops, was opened and a gold watch, pins and other jewelry as well as a pocketbook were stolen from the home. The thieves gained entrance by cutting the wire and raising the hook. The police are working on the case.

WEATHER.

There was no trouble during Franks' speech yesterday. Soldiers accompanied him from Hopkinsville.

BIG LUMBER FIRE IN MAINE CAUSED BY CARELESSNESS.

Saco, Me., Sept. 15.—Fire, starting at midnight in the lumber yard of the Crossman Box factory, burned over 20 acres. The loss is a half million. Eighty-five tenements and nine million feet of lumber were destroyed. Six hundred are homeless. The Diamond Match company is the heaviest loser in lumber. A careless smoker dropping his match box in the shavings is suspected.

WELLS DISPOSES OF BURIED TREASURE.

Charles H. Wells, of Mayfield, who found a kettle of gold while digging a foundation for a saw mill in Ballard county, has sold the money, face value of $5,600, for $9,200 to C. F. Clark & company, of Cincinnati, old coin collectors. The find includes 115 $20-gold pieces; 200 $10-gold pieces; 120 $5-gold pieces; 8 $50-gold pieces; 210 silver dollars and 180 silver half dollars. The money is supposed to have been buried by a man named Keitham during the civil war. Wells has never made any secret of his find, and considers the money rightfully his own. He will engage in the real estate business in Mayfield.

Dynamite as Well as Gasoline Taken From Stored Quantity at Murray and Authorities Are Stirred Up Cannot Account for Disappearance or Purpose to Which Thief Expects to Put Stuff—May be Night Riders.

Murray, Ky., Sept. 15. (Special.)—Are the night riders planning an attack on Murray? Is a question that is giving some concern to officers and citizens now. Added to the theft of 50 gallons of gasoline Friday night it became known today that a case of dynamite was stolen from a tool house at the city gravel pit the same night the gasoline was stolen. That the attack might have been planned for the next night after the theft of the explosives was evidenced by the fact that soldiers discovered telephone wires cut between Pottersville and Murray, as they were returning from patrolling the roads of the eastern portion of the county. They first attempted to get telephone communication with the camp at Murray and failing started into town horseback, and found the wires cut a short distance from Pottersville, which is near the hot bed of night riders.

In any event extra guards have been placed around the town and the approaching roads and a warm reception awaits any invaders who may attempt to come.

HIGH SCHOOL FIGHT.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Piano Manufacturer H. McCabe offers funds and Corporation Counsel Brundage his services to aid the high school students in their fight of the board's ban on fraternities. The suspended students' application for mandamus will be heard Saturday. The students propose to go to the federal supreme court if necessary.

Des Moines Iowa, Sept. 15.—The standpaters after a 24 hours' conference practically agreed for Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark, former chief of Railway Conductors, to run against Cummins for senator.

Insane Farmer's Deed.

Little Cora Suiter

Cora Suiter, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Suiter, of 1520 Jones street, died last night of malaria fever. The burial took place at Benton this afternoon.

The street committee met last night and discussed several minor matters that have been referred to the members. The committee decided to recommend that "Tarvia" be given a trial on Tenth street between Broadway and Kentucky avenue. It was ordered that Jackson street between Twenty-first street and Guthrie avenue should be opened up and it will be brought before the board.

CITY WILL TAKE A HAND IN SCHOOL BOND INJUNCTION SUIT IN COURT OF APPEALS

City Solicitor Campbell, Refused Privilege of Filing Amended Petition in Case, Goes to Argue Matter.

FEAR THAT IT WILL PREVENT PROCEEDINGS IF SCHOOL BONDS CARRY AT GENERAL ELECTION.

Thinks That All Grounds Were Not Laid Before Court to Afford Opportunity For Through Hearing.

The city will take a hand in the proceedings to enjoin the school bond election, and City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., will go to Louisville with counsel to argue the matter before Judge Barker, of the court of appeals. Mr. Campbell's participation in the argument follows a futile effort on his part to induce attorneys in the case—Bradshaw & Bradshaw, for the nominal petitioner, and Wheeler, Hughes & Berry, representing the school board—to file an amended petition, setting forth facts and data, which Mr. Campbell thought should go to make up the record for a fair and complete hearing. All the attorneys would agree to do was to permit him to make an argument on the record as made up.

City Solicitor Campbell interfered in the case after a consultation with Mayor Smith in which he set out the facts as he saw them. His authority is based on his commission to represent the taxpayers of Paducah. Whether the school board or the city issues the bonds the same people must eventually pay off the debt, and there is no legal representative of the people other than the city solicitor. The school board wishes to issue bonds and the friendly suit is brought for the purpose of ascertaining the legality of the issue, no interests adverse to the bond issue being represented in the suit. City Solicitor Campbell fears that while the action is brought not to enjoin the bond issue, but to enjoin the holding of an election, grounds may be stated that will constitute a bar to any suit after the election to enjoin the bond issue, or the school board and makes the defense of res adjudicata. For that reason he thought it only just to the taxpayers that all possible objections to the election be urged. If this suit is to stop any further litigation on the subject.

FERRY LICENSE GRANTED LEVANS BY COUNTY JUDGE.
Privilege to operate a ferry from the foot of Elizabeth street across the Tennessee river to the Livingston county shore, was granted W. N. Levan & Son yesterday by Judge Lightfoot, of the county court. The order stipulates that the landing places of the new ferry shall be more than one mile from the landing places of the ferry now conducted by Mrs. Mollie Nardin. Judge Lightfoot also gave the owner of the old ferry notice that the boats now operated must be repaired and new approaches built within 30 days, or the privilege would be revoked.

Strong opposition to granting Levans a franchise was made by Mrs. Nardin, who employed Attorney W. A. Berry to represent her. John K. Hendrick represented the Levans. The operation of a safe ferry from the points designated by the Levans undoubtedly will prove of great benefit to Paducah and will bring Livingston county farmers here with their products at all seasons of the year, a landing having been secured on that side of the river that can be reached at all stages of the river. The new boat will be built at once and placed in the trade as soon as possible.

DEPOSITIONS TO BE TAKEN IN THE TELEPHONE CASE.
On October 5 depositions will be taken in New York by City Solicitor James Campbell in the case of the city of Paducah against the East Telephone company. Mr. Campbell will make the trip with Hon. Charles K. Wheeler, who is an attorney for the telephone company.

CHOLERA SPREAD CAUSES FEAR ALL THROUGH EUROPE.

London, Sept. 15.—The spread of cholera in Russia causes fear that the European continent is in danger. Germany, France, Italy, Austria, England and other countries are planning rigid precautions. Poverty and bad sanitary conditions in Russia favor a spread. There are thousands of cases. The Astrakhan province is the worst.

Field Over for Stealing Eggs.
Two young colored boys, O. T. Ellison and Florence Langston, were held over to the grand jury this morning by Police Judge Cross on the charge of entering a box car. It is alleged that the two boys broke into a railroad car and stole about 15 dozen of eggs. The boys stated that they found the eggs under a car. Patrolman Henry Singery arrested O. T. Ellison after he had sold C. E. Blackhall a basket of eggs.

Rains Promised During the Week.
Washington, Sept. 15.—The weather bureau late this afternoon issued a special forecast as follows:
The first well-defined disturbance of the present season is approaching the north Pacific coast and a West Indian storm is advancing toward our southeastern coast. The combination should produce abundant rains in the drought-stricken districts of the North Central states before the close of the present week.

HEALTH AUTHORITIES TO PROCEED AGAINST BOARD.

Lee and Lincoln School Buildings May Be Subject of Litigation.

The failure of the school board to make provisions for the connecting of the Lee and Lincoln buildings with the sanitary sewerage will be the cause of either prosecution under the ordinance, compelling private property owners to connect with the sewerage, or mandamus proceedings will be instituted to force the connection. The city solicitor has the matter under consideration and will decide in a day or two what steps he will take.

The Next President Is Fifty-One Years Old Today.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 15.—Judge William H. Taft is fifty-one years old today, and congratulations are being received on that event. The well wishes are coming both by letter and postal card. The candidate was born in Cincinnati September 15, 1857.

Representative Grant E. Mouser, of Marion, representing the Thirteenth congressional district, came to town today, bringing with him a number of his constituents, whom he introduced to the candidate. The call was simply one of respect. BLACK CLOTH OVER BENNETT'S EYES

Witness Tells of Finding of Murdered Boy's Body.

Evidence of Horses Having Been Stamped in Public Road at That Point.

NIGHT RIDER WAS AMBUSHED

W. C. Cooksey was the first witness called in the case of Gardner and Hunt, charged with the murder of Vaughn Bennett, the night rider, says the Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle, and he deposed as follows:

"I live in the Fifth district, near Sango, and the Trough Spring road on the cross road from Trough Spring to the Bobo road, about twenty-five yards from Trough Spring road."

Witness was at home on the night of March 9, 1908, when young Bennett was killed. He knew of it the next morning about 6 o'clock, as he was passing from the stable to his house, when he saw the boy and two horses lying in the road. He went to the place and then home, when he told his wife what he saw and that he would go to the woodsons, neighbors. He went and told Mr. Woodson and son, passing the place where Bennett was lying and they returned to the scene of the tragedy. Squire Davis was then telephoned to.

The horse Vaughn Bennett was riding was lying with his head to the northeast, the other to the southwest. Bennett's foot was in the stirrup and lying nearly parallel with the horses. When Ernest Woodson said it was Vaughn Bennett, he then noticed enough of his face to know who it was. His face was not concealed and his hat was a short distance away. One double barrel shotgun was lying on one side of his horse and another on the other side, and a single barrel gun was standing against the horse. Witness saw tracks of buggy turned around right near the horses and signs of a horse hitched to a telephone post. Got over the west fence and there found empty shotgun shells. These shells were six or eight feet from the fence.

Cross Examination. Witness re-stated where he lived. Mr. Woodson lived about the same distance north of where the shooting occurred. Had known Vaughn Bennett a long time. His left hand was under his body. Did not see any kind of mask. Witness made a statement to Will Woodson, but did not tell him a black cloth was tied over the face of Vaughn Bennett.

Ernest Woodson. Ernest Woodson was called and gave the following statements:

"I live with my father in District No. 5. Heard of Vaughn Bennett being killed the next morning, when I saw him after Cooksey came to my house. Went to the place and recognized him. There was a cloth over his forehead, covering his left eye."

Woodson described the location of the horses and Vaughn Bennett, as were described by former witness. "I observed," said he, "four shot holes in the back of the head. I never saw anything in either hand. I saw the guns lying near the horses. Saw pistol in the pocket of Bennett. It was loaded all round. The shells were found inside of the field, twelve or fifteen steps from where the horses were lying. Found some buckshot at Cooksey's house, one sticking in the house and another on the ground. I saw the piece of rope tied around the telephone post, and noticed that the knot had been drawn very hard. Saw horse tracks indicating the horse had tried hard to get loose. I assisted in moving Bennett's body to a barn 100 yards distant. He was not dead at the time."

The state here turned the witness over to defense for cross-examination.

Court Adjourns. Mr. Leech stated that as court would adjourn at 12:30 they could not finish the cross examination. Judge Tyler then announced that out of respect to the memory of Major Clay Stacker, who died Sunday, he would adjourn the court until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

NEGRO SHOT DEAD.

Resisted Arrest By Officers After Shooting Flagman.

Special Officer Ed Fitzgerald returned yesterday from Bardwell, Ky., and other points in the vicinity. He went there to take part in the hunt for a negro named Henry Winterfield who shot Flagman Johnson, of the Illinois Central, several days ago. The negro was tracked south and the hunt for him was cut short by news received yesterday that he was shot dead by officers in Mississippi. He was a desperate fellow, had two pistols on his person and resisted arrest vigorously.—Cairo Bulletin.

REPUBLICAN DOCTRINE OF PROTECTION.

(From Taft's speech of acceptance.)

The Republican doctrine of protection, as definitely announced by the Republican convention of this year and by previous conventions, is that a tariff shall be imposed on all imported products, whether of the factory, farm or mine, sufficiently great to equal the difference between the cost of production abroad and at home, and that this difference be between the higher wages paid in this country and the wages paid abroad, and embrace a reasonable profit to the American producer. A system of protection thus adopted and put in force has led to the establishment of a rate of wages here that has greatly enhanced the standard of living of the laboring man. It is the policy of the Republican party permanently to continue that standard of living. In 1897 the Dingley tariff bill was passed, ed, under which we have had, as already said, a period of enormous prosperity.

The consequent material development has greatly changed the conditions under which many articles described by the schedules of the tariff are now produced. The tariff in a number of the schedules exceeds the difference between the cost of production of such articles abroad and at home, including a reasonable profit to the American producer. The excess over that difference serves no useful purpose, but offers a temptation to those who would monopolize the production and the sale of such articles in this country, to profit by the excessive rate. On the other hand, there are other schedules in which the tariff is not sufficiently high to give the measure of protection which they should receive upon Republican principles, and as to those the tariff should be raised. A revision of the tariff undertaken upon this principle, which is at the basis of our present business system, begun promptly upon the incoming of the new administration, and considered at a special session with the preliminary investigations already begun by the appropriate committees of the house and senate, will make the disturbance of business incident to such a change as little as possible.

Not a Fish.

Is an Australian turtle a "fish"? An act of the Australian parliament provides that a bounty is payable on preserved fish. An enterprising speculator in northern Australia has been producing preserved turtle on an extensive scale, and he claimed the bounty under this act. But after much consultation of dietitians the department has decided that the turtle is not a fish, but a "reptile." If American customs officials assent to this ruling Maryland may rise in revolt.—Boston Advertiser.

NEW RAILROAD ORGANIZATION

Railroad Investors' and Employees Association.

To Encourage Friendly Relations and Promote Efficient Service, Says P. H. Morressey.

FOR THEIR MUTUAL BENEFIT.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—At a meeting of prominent railway officials and representatives of labor organizations whose members are employed on the railway the "American Railroad Employees' and Investors' Association" was formed.

A statement of the object of the meeting was made public by P. H. Morressey, grandmaster of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, to the effect that the purposes of the association are to use all lawful methods to cultivate and maintain between its members a spirit of mutual interest and concern on the part of all of them for the welfare and prosperity of the American railroads as well as best promote their successful and profitable operation for the benefit alike of the employees, investors and the public; encourage friendly meetings on the part of the public toward the railroads and their business; to publicly provide means and methods for obtaining consideration and hearing from legislative bodies and commissions empowered to enact laws, rules and regulations affecting railroads; to do whatever lawful things may be necessary to secure a fair return alike to capital and to labor interested in the railroads, with due regard at all times to efficient service, fair treatment and the safety of the public.

The association is at no time to be used for partisan political purposes, nor to take part in any controversy between railroad employees and railroad officials.

TAFT TO COME TO KENTUCKY.

Expects to Address the State Bankers' Association at Lexington.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—William H. Taft's first campaigning tour will begin Wednesday, September 23, if the candidate's present desires in the matter are observed.

It is regarded as not unlikely that Mr. Taft will accept the invitation to have received from the Kentucky Bankers' association and address them at Lexington on September 23.

Mr. Taft has expressed a desire to speak in Tennessee, and it is pointed out here that he would extend the Kentucky trip to Nashville and Chattanooga, and from there go to St. Louis and Kansas City, and then into the other middle western states.

ROWLAND HERRING WRITES LETTER DESCRIBING HIS TRIP ABROAD.

Mrs. R. Herring, of 315 South Third street, has received an interesting letter from her son, Rowland Herring, dated at Naples, Italy. Mr. Herring, who is returning from a four years' trip around the world for the Standard Oil company, should have landed in New York yesterday.

The letter says: Leaving in the morning for Rome; expect to spend a few days there. Would like to Sunday there and attend service at St. Peter's, but will probably be in Venice.

We landed at Brindisi early yesterday morning and as we could not get away before 6:30, took a drive over the town; it was very nice to be up so early. (The first time I had been up before nine in many a day.) The ride from there was very nice. The railway runs along the sea until we reached Toggia. All of this country is covered with vineyards and olive orchards. So much wine is made there that they use tank cars (the same as our oil tank cars) to transport it. At Foggia I met the first honest waiter in a hotel; we stopped there for lunch, and as our train was late we hardly thought we would have time for it, but anyway we went in, and had gotten about half through when the station guard came in and motioned (he couldn't speak English) all of us to our places, everyone arose hurriedly and got out before we had finished, when we took our places we found the train wouldn't go again for some minutes, then the waiter showed what a good man he was by bringing the rest of our lunch to us in paper bags. He's the first person I've met who cared whether you got anything or not as long as you had paid. Arrived here at 5 p. m., too late to go anywhere so we contented ourselves in a look over the city. Naples is quite an ancient place, having been a town at the same time as Pompeii and Rome, but fortunately it escaped the eruption that destroyed Pompeii and two or three other cities; of course, none of that old city is here; the oldest buildings here now date from the twelfth century. This morning we took an electric car to Pompeii, and almost spent the day there, wandering about through the streets, and into the houses of the old Romans. "It's surprising the fine state of preservation these things are in—the floors (Mosaic) of stone are as pretty and bright as they ever were, as are the printing on the walls. The public baths (for the rich only) were something grand. The old streets, paved with huge blocks of stone, are just as they were then. 'Tis wonderful to see the deep ruts worn in them by the cart and chariot wheels, especially at the crossing of the two main streets, the excavating is still going on and fresh wonders are being discovered. We could spend more time here, but the main things are the Museum and the Cathedral, and as we will see the finest and oldest in Rome, we are leaving here without regret.

This hotel is a very nice one and has a fine view of Vesuvius, and the city as it is built on a hill, quite away from the business part of town. Coming back here this afternoon from the station, we drove through the old city with its high buildings, built of blocks of lava and filled to overflowing with people. A thing that struck us as rather funny was seeing the men driving goats through the streets—it seems they supply the milk for the town, and are driven morning and evening to the houses where they are milked of just as much as is wanted—it's a cheap way of delivering the day's supply and it insures fresh milk. We were rather amused at an American couple (father and daughter), who came to the cafe at Pompeii, where we were waiting for the train. They wanted lemonade, but the girl, to be smart, called the waiter a Swiss, and in her best French asked for "Dens Limonade." He answered her in English, and asked her "if she wanted lemon-squash?" "No! She wanted lemonade," again in French. He went away, but came back and tried to explain to her the difference, but no. She knew what lemonade was, and she got it, but not what she wanted. It was bottled. They tried it, but couldn't drink it. She tried to find fault but he couldn't understand her French. They evidently just came out, for in a' of this country a lemon, and a lemonade is the bottled stuff, and he charged her a franc (20c) which isn't fit to drink. They got in a cab at the station, and I heard her trying to speak to him—French again. He whipped up and came alongside our cab and tried to get our guide to tell him what she wanted, but the guide paid no attention to her. The last we saw of them they were trying to get some information from one of the police. She's just the kind that help to make Americans appear ridiculous. If she had spoken in English the cabbie would have understood, for there isn't one in fifty that can't speak English. They make it their business. I suppose "Papa" had paid a lot for her French lessons and she came here to use it.

The porter, who took out traps at the railway station yesterday, informed me that he was an American soldier, having fought under U. S. Grant, and is now receiving ten dollars a month pension.

I'll probably write again from Rome, Venice or Paris.

AT LOUISVILLE

SUIT OF HENRY BENNETT WILL BE FILED TODAY.

Dycusburg Victim of Night Riders Institutes Proceedings for Damages.

Pleadings in the suit against the assailants of Henry Bennett, the Dycusburg night rider victim, were prepared yesterday afternoon by Captain Carl Henderson, county attorney of Crittenden county, and Judge James Campbell, of Paducah, and will be filed today in the federal court at Louisville. The names of the defendants will be withheld until service is returned by the United States marshal.

Henry Bennett was visited by a band of night riders last spring and taken from his home and fearfully beaten with thorn sticks. A warehouse belonging to Bennett was also burned and he was forced to abandon his fine home at Dycusburg and flee to Indiana, where he now resides at Jeffersonville. Captain Henderson as county attorney of Crittenden county in which the crime was committed, has been relentless in his pursuit of the guilty parties and besides the civil suit criminal prosecutions will be instituted in the Crittenden circuit court.

Senator Wheeler Campbell, whose law office is now in Louisville, will assist the plaintiff's attorney.

Sporting Offer.

As he entered the restaurant the cut of his clothes betrayed him as a member of the sporting fraternity. Choosing a corner seat, he ordered oyster stew. When the dish was brought to him he looked at it with a critical frown and then he began excitedly to peel off his coat and vest.

"What's the matter? What's the matter?" said the landlord, hurrying to the table.

The man looked at the stew, then at the landlord and said:

"Bet you 5 shillings I can swim from one oyster to another."—Chicago Journal.

Why Be Gray?

Why be gray? Why allow silver hairs to mingle with the gold or brown or black or auburn as the case may be? There is no reason why a man should have gray hair, according to Prof. Metchnikoff, the eminent biologist. His remedy consists simply in curling or waving the hair to the action of a hot iron, for it is the effect of the heat that is the essential factor. Dr. Metchnikoff, we are told, in spite of his advanced age, has a fine head of hair which shows no trace of grayness. He has always used a curling iron, not from any feeling of vanity, but because he maintains that the pigmentary cells of the hair are liable to be attacked by microbes which, in turn, are easily destroyed by the action of a hot iron. Thus the cells are preserved, and with them the primitive color of the hair. The remedy is absurdly simple, but we dare say that most men would prefer to have gray hair than to manipulate a curling iron. On the other hand, one is inclined to doubt the efficacy of the Russian scientist's discovery. Women have gray hair in spite of the frequent use of the curling iron.—Rochester Post Express.

There is only one man to whom women can be crueler than to the one she hates—that is the man whom she loves.

Daily Thought.

Paradise is for those who command their anger.—Koran.

We are still waiting for the News-Democrat to tell us what it thinks of a man who would scratch a ticket or bolt a primary.

Mr. Maxim is about to patent a process for the prolongation of human life. We were hoping that the Wrights would soon invent a ship that would fly right up to the platy gases; but if scientists are about to make us live here forever, barring accidents, we shall stay out of flying machines.

It is rumored that Emperor William, of Germany, will visit President Roosevelt to visit him after Roosevelt's hunting trip. We have no doubt of the correctness of the rumor, and have from the first expected that the year's hunting trip will be followed by a trip around the world and a visit to all the great courts. If Providence spares Theodore Roosevelt to his country, he will remain her most useful citizen on his return.

How pleasant it is to see one, in church or state or society, perform his or her part simply, naturally, conscientiously, without apology or ostentation, neither withholding anything through self-consciousness, nor indulging in excess through vanity, contributing his share to the success of an enterprise as a matter of course; just a wholesome, well-poised human being devoid of conceit. It is much a matter of home training.

CALLED INTO SERVICE.

It is well for us to remember that Judge Taft has never sought office. He was called from the federal bench against his own inclination by President McKinley to administer the tangled affairs of the Philippines, at a time when political preference would not satisfy the demands of the situation and a man of extraordinary qualifications and equipment was needed. The islands were in a ferment of rebellion against this government; nationalities, codes and creeds were in confusion away out there in the middle of the Pacific ocean, and we did not even know to distinguish between them; a conflict was raging between the Catholic clergy and a native faction over the friar lands, and to make the situation worse our government was inexperienced in dealing with colonial affairs. There was no precedent, and worse still, the founders of the republic, not only had not provided for such a contingency, as a founding province left on our doorstep, but had congratulated themselves on the spinster-like seclusion of America.

To become governor general of such a possession, cut up as it is in hundreds of islands and far away, was not a tempting proposition to a scholarly gentleman with a position on the federal bench and aspirations toward the supreme court. But Taft yielded to persuasion and history will record him as father of the American colonial policy; the man who today is preaching the gospel of fair play for our territorial possessions. His success in the Philippines and at Rome, where he negotiated the friar land settlement, brought him other duties in Panama in Cuba and in the war department. As Grover Cleveland said, our colonial policy is one of our big problems, and no one else is so fitted for the task as Taft. He has been around the world and knows our foreign relations and the people personally with whom we have to deal; he is a learned judge, a scholar, a diplomat and a sincere patriot. His patriotism was tested when he was induced to leave the comforts of the bench for the discomforts of Manila. His character was proven when he denounced Coxism in Ohio, after he was mentioned for president, and again last week in the midst of a national campaign, he refused Cox's assistance. Henry Clay said he "would rather be right than be president"; William H. Taft proved that he would.

NOT BEHAVING WELL.

"Perhaps Mr. Norman E. Meek, chairman of the national Democratic executive committee, may not think it worth while to pay any attention to the south," says the Chattanooga Times (Dem.). "But signs are increasing that he may have to change his opinion. A perusal of the Democratic newspapers of Tennessee and Georgia should convince him that things aren't looking exactly right. In this state, for instance, newspapers professedly advocating Mr. Bryan's election are openly assailing the state organization, defying the platform and hardly giving the candidates even lukewarm support. This in the face of a harmonized and organized opposition is dangerous. In Georgia very much the same conditions exist. The following from the Macon Telegraph is significant:

"Watson has been here; Hearst, Higgen and Graves are coming, and also likely Yancy. But Bryan did not come; poor, so far as known, is any Democrat of national, or even state reputation, coming to Macon. Atlanta made a small effort to have a Democratic rally, but it proved a failure. Bryan was whooped up a little bit, but the name of the Democratic candidate for governor was hissed and insulted, and Hoke smiled."

"Brown in Georgia and Patterson in Tennessee will be elected, but Mr. Bryan ought to be warned that some of his staunchest supporters are acting queerly. Perhaps a bit of discipline is needed."

DON'T CLOSE THE SCHOOLS.

The idea of closing the schools temporarily during the year is not to be considered. That time could never be made up. Money spent can be made up; time lost is lost forever. Take six months out of a child's life, and then expect him to make up that six months later in life, indeed! How many adults have ever made up a lost minute? While you were making it up, you were losing another minute. Whether or not you favor the bond issue, you must not talk of closing down the schools. Let us ascertain just how much money is required to maintain the schools, and what the deficit is and secure the amount. Don't spend a cent of revenue from the state and the city levy to pay interest and floating debt. That is the mistake previous boards made, and it only involves the schools the deeper. We can take care of old debts some other way. What we are interested in is the continuance of the schools.

Chickasaw Legislature.

Thohomung, Okla., Sept. 15.—A special session of the Chickasaw Indian legislature is in session for the purpose of resisting the homestead taxation. Governor Johnson is presiding.

Messrs. Charles and William Bell will leave this evening for Terre Haute, where they will attend the Rose Polytechnic school.

County Attorney and Mrs. Alben Barkley, of North Fifth street, are the parents of a fine girl baby, weighing ten pounds at birth.

MARCHING KITCHEN FOR ARMY.

Huge Kettle on Wheels, Bought in Europe, Reaches New York.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The army may have a "marching kitchen." The commissary general of the army has arranged for the shipment to Washington Barracks of the rolling soup kitchen, which he saw while in Europe and which he saw now being informed that he has now been given the orders for its purchase given by General Sharpe a few weeks ago.

General Sharpe does not have too much faith in the kitchen, because there are conditions of transportation and problems of mobility to be taken into consideration. The moving kitchen is of restricted use and is not quite what its name implies, since it is used only for the preparation of soup or stew, without having any of the general and larger functions of the kitchen. It is simply a huge kettle on wheels and is usually drawn, when in use in the Russian or German armies, by two horses.

NOT TRUE

PATROLMAN JOHNSON DENIES STORY FROM CALIFORNIA.

Says He Received a Telegram From His Daughter and She Will Write at Once.

According to Patrolman and Mrs. William M. Johnson, the news "story" sent out from Los Angeles relative to the disappearance of Mrs. Lawrence Raso, formerly of Paducah, is untrue. Patrolman Johnson stated that he had received a telegram from his daughter in response to one he sent yesterday. She stated she was well and would write a letter, which is expected tomorrow. The article as published in the city papers was:

"Los Angeles Cal., Sept. 13.—Mysterious circumstances surrounding the disappearance of his young and beautiful wife have driven Lawrence Raso, of the Fourth street railway, frantic with fear that she may have been slain. Mrs. Raso, 28 years old, was the belle of Paducah, Ky., where her early life was lived, and where her parents still live.

"She disappeared from her apartments in the Key West hotel about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Since that time her husband, aided by the best detectives, has been unable to find any clue as to her whereabouts. "A woman phoned Mr. Raso at his office Wednesday morning asking him what beach his wife was visiting. The woman refused to give her name."

Original "Press Agent" Dead.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Hugh Coyle, credited with being the original of the modern press agent, died in this city Saturday, although news of his death did not become public until today. He was 65 years of age, and death was due to cancer. The deceased was widely known in theatrical circles. He was a telegraph operator and drummer boy in the civil war, after which he created the position of "press agent," as it is known today. He served for years on the publicity staff of P. T. Barnum.

WILSON OF KENTUCKY TO SPEAK IN MISSOURI.

St. Louis, Sept. 15.—C. D. Morris, of St. Joseph, announced that he has secured Gov. Augustus E. Wilson, of Kentucky, as one of the speakers for the opening of the Republican state campaign at Springfield, Mo., next Saturday. The campaign in Missouri will be a big political event in southwest Missouri, and will attract a large crowd to Springfield from Greene and surrounding counties. Senator Warner will be chairman of the gathering. Herbert S. Hadley, nominee for governor, and most of the other state candidates will attend. Dade county Republicans have organized a marching club of 500 members, and there will be a large turnout for a parade. Special trains will be run into Springfield from a number of points. The rally will last all day, with speaking in the afternoon and at night.

The Best Equipped Candidate.

Of all the presidential candidates within the memory of this generation, Taft is unquestionably the best equipped, in training and experience, and in wide and close contact with large affairs. In one important respect his equipment is unlike that of any of the presidents, no one of whom had ever served on the bench. With the exception of those nominated on their military records, and two or three who had been governors of their states, the presidents have been men whose political training was in the legislative branch. Taft was never in congress, or even in his state legislature. He is wholly without personal experience in what is called practical politics. He was educated for the bar; early became a judge; the whole trend of his thought and of his ambition has been in the line of the judiciary, and his ingrained judicial temperament it was that made him so conspicuously useful and successful in the many difficult administrative problems he was later called upon to solve.

It was a distinct sacrifice he made when President McKinley took him from a life position that he enjoyed and that was in line of his dearest hopes, to lay upon him the burden of establishing peace and order in the Philippines. The judgment, tact and skill with which he carried out that great task; the candid diplomacy with which he smoothed away perplexing obstacles; the unselfish devotion; with which he has upheld the interests of those far-away people in the face of indifference at home, were a honor to the nation. The same qualities of a wise adjudicator have been repeatedly at the service of the country. In Cuba, in Panama, in Japan it has been necessary only to "send for Taft." Misunderstandings are cleared up and difficulties vanish before this gracious personality. His calm, clear, disentangling mind. His intellectual integrity and disinterestedness have been as unmistakable as his quiet strength. His unswerving sense of justice, his absolute honesty. It is not a mind that moves by impulse or in startling flashes; it is a mind well poised and of singular clarity, that reaches its results by logical principles, which do not antagonize, but convince.—From the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Ind. Dem.

"How do you classify me, please—with friends or acquaintances?" He laughed; then the gravity of what she was doing changed his tone. "I am John Armitage. That is all you know, and yet you hazard your life to warn me that I am in danger?" "If you called yourself John Smith I should do exactly the same thing. It makes not the slightest difference to me who or what you are."

"You are explicit!" he laughed. "I don't hesitate to tell you that I value your life much higher than you do."

"That is quite unnecessary. It may amuse you to know that, as I am a person of little curiosity, I am not the least concerned in the solution of—"

"What might be called the Armitage riddle."

"Oh, I'm a riddle, am I?"

"Not to me, I assure you! You are only the object of some one's enmity."

He distinguished a woman's figure and drew back.

and there's something about murder that isn't exactly nice! It's positively unesthetic."

"She had begun seriously, but laughed at the absurdity of her last words."

"You are amazingly impersonal. You would save a man's life without caring in the least what manner of man he may be."

"You put it rather dully, but that's about the truth of the matter. Do you know, I am almost afraid!"

"Not of me, I hope?"

"Certainly not. But it has occurred to me that you may have the conceit of your own mystery, that you may take rather too much pleasure in mystifying people as to your identity."

"That is unkind—that is unkind," and he spoke without resentment, but softly, with a falling cadence. He suddenly threw down the hat he had held in his hand, and extended his arms toward her.

"You are not unkind or unjust. You have a right to know who I am and what I am doing here. It seems an impertinence to thrust my affairs upon you, but if you will listen I should like to tell you—it will take but a moment—why and what?"

"Please do not! As I told you, I have no curiosity in the matter. I can't allow you to tell me. I really don't want to know!"

"I am willing that every one should know tomorrow—or the day after—tomorrow."

"She lifted her head, as though with the earnestness of some new thought. "The day after may be too late. Whatever it is that you have done—"

"I have done nothing to be ashamed of. I swear I have not!"

"Whatever it is, and I don't care what it is," she said deliberately, "it is something quite serious, Mr. Armitage. My brother—"

"She hesitated for a moment, then spoke rapidly. "My brother has been detailed to help in the search for you. He is at Storm Springs now."

"But he doesn't understand!"

"My brother is a soldier, and it is not necessary for him to understand."

"And you have done this—you have come to warn me?"

"It does look pretty bad," she said, changing her tone and laughing a little. "But my brother and I—we always had very different ideas about you, Mr. Armitage. We hold briefs for different sides of the case."

leaped in him, and he spoke on with a fierce haste. "You have made sacrifices for me that no woman ever made before for a man—for a man she did not know. And my life, whatever it is worth, every hour and second of it, I lay down before you, and it is yours to keep or throw away. I followed you halfway round the world, and I shall follow you again and as long as I live. And tomorrow or the day after I shall justify these great kindnesses, this generous confidence, but tonight I have a work to do."

As they stood on the verge of the file by the bridge that swung out from the cliff like a fairy structure they heard far and faint the whistle and low rumble of the night train south-bound from Washington, and to both of them the sound urged the very real and practical world from which for a little time they had stolen away.

"I must go back," said Shirley and turned to the bridge and put her hand on its slight iron frame, but he seized her wrists and held them tight.

"You have risked much for me, but you shall not risk your life again in my cause. You cannot venture across that bridge again."

She yielded without further parley and he dropped her wrists at once. "Please say no more. You must not make me sorry I came. I must go. I should have gone back instantly."

"But not across that spider's web. You must go by the long road. I will give you a horse and ride with you into the valley."

"It is much nearer by the bridge, and I have my horse over there."

"We shall get the horse without trouble," he said, and she walked beside him through the starlight wood. As they crossed the open tract she said: "This is the Port of Missing Men."

WRIGHT REPORT MADE PUBLIC.

Finds 52 Indian Claimants Entitled to Allotments.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The commissioner of Indian affairs has made public a report made to him by J. B. Wright, commissioner to the five civilized tribes, under date of November 15, 1907, concerning 52 members of the five tribes, and to whom land general allotment had been made under the general congressional enactment for such allotment and allotment. This data is important to the claimants, and already the attorneys of many of them have exerted themselves to gain access to the document, but hitherto without success. The report has been guarded because of the difficulties standing in the way of releasing the rolls, for it is realized that if another opportunity is offered many Indians whose claims are not clear nor so meritorious as the 52 will seek to have themselves included in the favored lists.

Funny Letters Are Received by the Government Department at Washington

Washington, Sept. 15.—Probably no branch of the government service receives so many "crank" communications as the department of justice.

Hardly a day passes but the postman brings queries from citizens seeking solution of some legal situation, denunciations of governmental policy, offers of assistance and advice on how to run things, and, oftentimes, pathetic little messages of disappointment and life failure.

Assistant Attorney General Russell recently returned from Oklahoma, where he went to settle up certain Indian land disputes. In the course of his work there, he issued subpoenas to a great many settlers. Upon his arrival here he found a curious letter. One of the men on whom a subpoena had been served wrote, "I pray you my honor have pity on me and tell thy servant the matter whereof I am complained against and charged with."

"The Hon. Melville W. Fuller, chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States of America, at the city of Muskogee"—the form of salutation with which the government's subpoenas were headed! The writer was pathetically frightened. He interspersed "my Lord" and "your Honor" throughout, and wound up with an appeal for an audience, stating his willingness to come all the way to Washington to find out what the accusation was. Judge Russell explained the matter by letter.

A South Boston (Mass.) man recently addressed 42 close-spaced typewritten pages to the department, detailing his marital vicissitudes—and they were of the variety defined by General Sherman's famous epigram about war.

The other day quite the most puzzling of the recent letters was received. It read:

"Madison, Wis., Attorney General Bonaparte. As a family we have been drugged most of the time for the last 20 years."

"MRS."

The late J. Sterling Morton was fond of relating the story of a letter he had received when secretary of agriculture. A young western farmer was assiduously courting the daughter of a neighbor—also a farmer—at whose home he was wont to indulge in an occasional game of cards. The girl's father was a volubly weather and crop correspondent, and as such was furnished with franked envelopes and stationery of the department of agriculture.

One evening the young man marked the score on one of the department's envelopes. Later, in idly examining it, he was horrified to discover the words "$300 penalty for private use," in the upper right hand corner. Filled with dreadful thoughts of prosecution, the prospective Benedict sat down and wrote an appealing letter to the secretary, the burden of which was "Please Mr. Morton don't prosecute me." At the end his sweetheart wrote "Please Mr. Secretary, if John has to pay his fine we won't never be able to get married, as it will take every cent he has saved."

The pathetic side of the case appealed to Morton. Of course, there was a ridiculous side, too, for the penalty clause on an official envelope refers only to its use through the mails. He therefore dictated a long, fatherly letter to the young man, taking care not to wound him by pointing out the ridiculousness of the situation, but merely explaining it clearly.—And he closed the letter by asking for a wedding invitation.

EVELYN SUE BY MILLINER.

Loses Portrait White Had Painted for Her on $236 Bill.

New York, Sept. 15.—Because Evelyn Thaw, wife of Harry Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, failed to pay a balance of $236 remaining on a milliner's bill of $686 incurred for hats, waists and skirts, a sheriff's deputy today seized on an execution of judgment a portrait of young Mrs. Thaw which the famous artist, Harrington Mapp, made of her at the request of White. It is said that during the second trial of Thaw, Evelyn, on one of her visits to the milliner, Miss Elsie Hartwig, produced her portrait as her dearest possession. She said she sat for it on her last visit to Paris, prior to her return to this country with Thaw, and that White designed the frame, a handsome affair.

Mrs. Thaw wished Miss Hartwig to take care of it, and Miss Hartwig did so until she failed to get the balance of her bill, when she handed it over to her lawyers. When Miss Hartwig obtained her judgment the lawyers directed the sheriff to levy on it.

Calls Board Bill Suit a Plot.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 15.—Gov. C. N. Haskell, of Oklahoma, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, who was sued Saturday for $1,122.25 for board for himself and family at the Turner hotel, Muskogee, says the suit was inspired by Oklahoma's Republican machine.

He said if "the gang" is looking for a scrap it can't possibly find anybody who will fight quicker than he will.

The governor said his family is a heavy stockholder in the hotel property; that dues of himself and family were always charged off by the president of the building company, A. A. Kinney, as part payment for rent. He says Fred Schurbel, the former proprietor of the hotel, who filed the suit, had consented to this arrangement.

Mr. P. L. Vanderbrook has returned from a business visit to Fulton.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

When the blood is pure and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth, and free from all blemishes and eruptions; but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation, its presence is quickly manifested by some form of skin disease. The skin receives its necessary nourishment and strength from the blood. When, however, this vital fluid becomes a humor-laden stream, it can no longer preserve the healthy, natural appearance of the skin, but by its acid, impure nature continually irritates and inflames the delicate tissues and fibres cannot reach the blood, and therefore are beneficial. External applications cannot reach the blood, and assist in keeping the parts clean. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be purified of the humors that are causing the trouble. S. S. S. drives out the humors from the blood so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a healthy, cooling stream. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impure matter, all acids and humors, and restores the blood to its normal, pure condition, thereby curing every form of skin disease or affection. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

JUST AS IT WAS IN 1896 AND 1900.

"It is no different Bryan who is running for president this year. As the days pass it becomes increasingly clear that the intelligence of the country will have to contend in 1908 against essentially the same desperate appeals to cupidity and ignorance and thriftlessness as were made in 1896 and again in 1900.

"A Bryan campaign without quackery would be welcome, but it would be inconceivable. The quack feature of the Nebraska canvass this year is to be his anti-panic specific of a government guarantee of deposits. Two years ago it looked as though it would be government ownership, but it was sure to be government something or other. All the ideas which Bryan has championed resolve themselves into the one idea which is the core of socialism, that only by government shall mankind be saved from itself. Guarantee bank deposits is only the open form which it takes for the present occasion. The real danger lurks in the background of insincerity.

"One of the amazing facts about Bryan's candidacy is that it is based on grounds which Bryan himself disputes. The Denver platform has a railroad plank which promises new excesses of regulation. Bryan does not believe in railroad regulation; he believes in government ownership of railroads. He has said, many times, that railroad regulation is bound to fail and that nothing but government ownership can solve the so-called railroad problem. The Denver platform also abounds in planks promising vigorous regulation of industrial corporations, but it follows like night after day that Mr. Bryan no more believes in regulating such concerns than he believes in railroad regulation. His whole course, his whole creed so far as it has been expounded, is evidence of a belief, albeit not yet confessed to himself perhaps, in the ultimate necessity of government ownership of industrial corporations as well as of railroads. The people, Mr. Bryan has said, believe in regulation. Therefore, I am willing to help all I can in helping them to experiment with regulation.

"It is very kind of Mr. Bryan to be so willing to pander to the people, but when they understand him as thoroughly as they should now, what can the people think of him? Certainly if they believe in a policy regulating anything else, that the last man to whom to intrust the carrying out of that policy is a man who disbelieves in it thoroughly, except as it may be a half-way house to the government ownership in which he believes implicitly but in which the people do not believe at all."—New York Sun.

PROHIBITIONIST DISTRICT TICKET

Letter Announcing Congressional Nomination.

The Rev. J. Henry Ballance Is Notified of His Choice By Letter

HIS LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

H. W. Davis, chairman of the Kentucky Prohibition executive committee, has formerly notified the Rev. J. Henry Ballance of his choice for Prohibition candidate in the First district in the following letter:

"As the Kentucky member of the national congressional nominating committee of the Prohibition party, I am pleased to officially inform you of your selection as our candidate for congress from the First district. You are to lead no forlorn hope; but it is your exalted privilege to offer the voters of your district an opportunity to express their disapproval of the tyrannical one-man rule in congress, which has deprived our people of the Democratic principle of control in their internal affairs, in harmony with their express and desires through overwhelming majorities.

"You are to give an opportunity to the clean, honest, citizenship of your district, to elect a representative in congress who will represent them; whose platform of principles is clear, concise, made to be understood and to be carried into effect.

"The great moral upheaval of the past year, following an awakened public conscience and the exposure of pretended temperance professions, on the part of some who wished to ride into office on the popular wave of reform, while holding on to the brewery patronage, has an opportunity through your candidacy of stamping its disapproval on such tactics.

"Go before your people and lead them to the heights of true American citizenship that seeks to elevate, to protect, to stimulate, to ennoble. Show them that the principles you advocate will, by your election be advanced, rendering our country, indeed, the land of the free, and the home of the brave, and not of the drunkard, the bum and the knave."

Mr. Ballance replied in the following words:

"Your official notification of my candidacy for congress in the First district was duly received.

"Allow me to say that I consider it an honor to champion the cause of Prohibition in my district. I sincerely believe that in this campaign, the liquor question is the greatest issue.

"You are certainly correct in saying that I am to lead no 'forlorn hope.' Just so surely as right shall eventually win over the wrong, so surely shall we win the ultimate victory. Yet immediate victory does not concern me so much as duty. I would advocate the cause of Prohibition if I were the only one in my district to speak for it or to vote for it because I believe it is right. Believing it to be for the best interests of our country, I espouse the cause and shall do all I can to evangelize this district with Prohibition Gospel.

"In the event of my election to congress, I shall do all in my power to truly represent my constituents, putting into force the principles of the platform upon which they and I stand. I shall contend for fairness and consistency on the part of those who help make the laws of our great country. The tactics to which you refer shall be exposed and condemned by me if I stand alone for the right.

"My plan shall be rather constructive than destructive. I shall build up such arguments that my hearers may see how far short my opponents come in grappling with the real issues before our people, their arguments of old license-partyism will fall off their own weight. I shall not condemn or abuse my opponents but meet them on the grounds of fairness and reason. With courage, faith and hearty good will, I enter the race."

"Now," grumbled Tommy, "I ain't watching you."

"Then what are you doing?"

DON'T BLAME HER

For she cannot help it. Women are often cross, irritable, hysteric, and declare they are driven to distraction at the slightest provocation.

Men cannot understand why this should be so. To them it is a mystery because in nine times out of ten this condition is caused by a serious feminine derangement.

A remedy is necessary which acts directly upon the organs afflicted, restoring a healthy normal condition to the feminine system, which will quickly dispel all hysterical, nervous and irritable conditions. Such is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

The following letter serves to prove this fact.

Mrs. Mattie Copenhaver, 315 So. 21st St., Parsons, Kans., writes:

"For two years I suffered from the worst forms of feminine ills, until I was almost driven frantic. Nothing but morphine would relieve me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness and made me a well woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

CIRCUS ANIMALS.

Animals play favorites—the same as human beings," said a representative of Ringling Brothers' circus. They form a liking for certain people and are equally capable of disliking. Take the elephant for instance. He will become as mushy as a healthy cream puff when approached by a little Smalboy, in the south, where the negroes flock to the show in goodly numbers. Mr. Twotails puts forth a smile of book-agent origin because he knows that candy and peanuts are his for the asking.

"The hippopotamus, which by the way, is prone to lie in his tank of water and execute fish-like stunts, will create no small amount of disturbance if approached by an Indian. Just why the liberal mouthed animal detests the Red Man we have never been able to learn, but it is a mortal certainty that he entertains a warlike feeling for the gent of copper complexion. So far as this particular dislike goes it's a case of horse and horse with the Indian. So bitter is the enmity between the two we are often compelled to close the hippo's den when playing certain western towns.

The giraffe's disfavor scale overbalances when a Chinaman wanders within view. The cause of this is the fact that the almond-eyed race persists in smoking cigarettes when inspecting the menagerie creatures. The family of long-necked beauties with Ringling Brothers' circus are not overly good natured at any stage of the game and often prove so funny that they refuse their feed. Such actions cause the chief attendant no small amount of worry, for a giraffe represents from $15,000 to $25,000, and is so batty that he would as leave dash out his brains as not.

The giraffe is subject to lung troubles and when despondent will strive to take on a cold in hope of cancelling life. There are very few men in the business who can get along with the giraffe. The successful keeper must be a bundle of good-nature, willing to humor the beast and live in the same cage with his charge day and night. When Ringling Brothers' "World's Greatest Shows" come to Paducah, Wednesday, Sept. 30, kindly note the little room at the front end of each giraffe wagon. It is in these little compartments that the keepers must reside. When the show is over and the cages loaded for transporting, you will find each prize beauty and his valet journeying to Dreamland in practically the same apartment.

NEW PATROLMEN

ELECTED BY POLICE AND FIRE BOARD LAST NIGHT.

John Bryant and Walter England

Walk Beats and Tilford Edwards is Fireman.

Three new men were elected by the board of police and fire commissioners in a short session at the city hall. John Bryant and Walter A. England were elected to the police force, while Tilford Edwards is elected to a vacancy in the fire department. The commissioners made their selections from about thirty applicants.

In the absence of City Clerk Maurice McIntyre, Auditor Alexander Kirkland was secretary.

John Bryant and Walter England are elected to the places in the police department caused by the dismissal of Patrolmen Bryant and Rousch. Mr. Bryant has been in the fire department several times, and will make a good policeman. He is not the one dropped from the police force England is a carpenter, and a man of splendid physique. Tilford Edwards, who will take the place of Fireman Will Warren, has been a teamster and was recommended to the commissioners.

Charges were preferred against Patrolmen Barber and Merry, by a stranger who alleged that they beat him and allowed others to strike him while under arrest, but the commissioners refused to consider the charge in police court yesterday morning evidence of the defendant proved that the patrolmen only did their duty.

Dr. Frank Boyd was appointed by the board to draw up a uniform application for positions. A copy of the large cities will be followed, and all desirable information about the applicants may be secured at a glance.

Extirminating Flies.

There are more than 40,000 described species of flies. There are more individuals of these species than of any other group of insects. They breed rapidly and are astonishingly prolific. They and their progenitors have pestered the inhabitants of the earth for ages.

But there is one place where they might as well give up the fight for existence. The sovereign state of Massachusetts has vowed their destruction. That announcement might not be counted so significant were it not for the fact that in a number of other places in the world, notably in England, there are like movements against them as nuisances and disease carriers.

The Boston dispatches tell of the plans of the state board of health. There is an appropriation of $100,000 as a starter. Skilled scientists will help. They will devote their entire time to the work of extermination. It is proposed to clean the marshes, ponds, bays and lakes where the breeding places are found. The campaign against the pests will be pushed with vigor. The success of the movement is persisted is undoubted.

If Massachusetts makes any headway other states will follow the lead. The surprising results from the energetic campaign against mosquitoes made in some of the Atlantic coast states indicate the possibilities of a gift of this sort. People have endured the flies from time immemorial as a necessary nuisance not to be escaped. The new zeal for their extermination is a reflex of the fighting spirit of the age, which does not recognize the impossibility of destroying all the old time enemies of mankind.

HEAT MAKES CHILDREN ILL

Summer is a very trying period for young children, and many a child who is usually healthy suffers during the heated term. There are many dangers for the child in summer. These lie in milk, food, water, fruit, etc. The greatest peril is from some form of stomach or bowel trouble. It is usually the starting point of graver troubles. Perspiration is interfered with, indigestion. The child becomes constipated, or gets worms develop, the skin becomes scaly and itchy, and the poor child is in much misery. Do not let it go, and trust to luck or fate for a cure. Use a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is intended to cure that very condition and is especially adapted to children's ills because of its mildness and purity. If the child has any of these symptoms, or has not had a passage in 24 hours, it needs Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at once. Give it in the small dose prescribed for children and watch the wonderful effect. It will act promptly but gently, and as it is pleasant to take you will not have to force it. A bottle can be obtained of any druggist at 50 cents or $1.00, and you should obtain a bottle to-day so as to have it on hand for an emergency. Many a mother has saved a child in this hot weather by the timely use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Thousands of mothers are getting to know it better and better and keep it constantly in the house as the first family remedy, appreciative of the fact that it contains absolutely no narcotics or harmful drugs. "Having taken your wonderful 'Cascarets' for three months and being entirely cured of stomach trouble and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to 'Cascarets' for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without result. I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken would in a year."

AT NAPLES

The Funny Things One Sees

in
Smiling Round the World

By
MARSHALL P. WILDER

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

We spent five days at Naples, and filled every hour of it with sight-seeing. Of course we stopped at Her- culaneum; but what can I add to the tributes that have been paid to that wonder of wonders? From its three strata of towns have been exhumed the rarest and choicest treasures that adorn the Naples museum.

We walked upon the crust of the seething volcano of Solfatara, now half extinct—in fact, it has laid torpid for seven centuries and is now spread with lush vegetation in the spring-time, and the walk to it, at that season, is through an inclosure like a lovely park of winding alleys and flower-edged paths. But in January we saw only the bare crust of the crater, from whose cliffs came puffs of white smoke, warnings that, at any moment, its hidden fires might break forth. We did not, as at Hawaii, drop our visiting cards into the clefts, only to see them burst into flame and consume in a few seconds, for we were not so curious about subterranean matters as when we were fresh and green in globe-trotting experiences; but we ventured out in obedience to our guide—in whom a long familiarity with craters had doubtless bred contempt—to a few feet of the center. He stamps upon it and says it is hollow. It certainly appears so. He jumps upon it, and the surface quivers. You begin to feel creepy up and down your spinal column, but, led on by his urgent appeals and assertions of "No fear! not be afraid!" you follow him on tip-toe to the very middle of the rocking thing, hoping with all your soul that it will hold together until you are safely off it, when you come to a hole out of which curls a little vapor and a curious murmuring sound as of some giant mumbling in his sleep. And that is the moment in which you wish you hadn't come. But you are induced to lean over and peer down into the hole, and are fascinated by the stirring and moving of boiling mud—horrid gray mud that reminds you instantly of Kipling's "great, gray, greasy Limpopo river," only this is a lake, but gray and greasy enough in all conscience, and seething and boiling in the vent-hole, and rising and falling with the escaping gas that bubbles and bursts and then collects and bursts again.

The lovely Bay of Baiae, that was once lined with the palace-villas of the wealthy Romans, much as Newport's shore is today, held our interest for a couple of hours. We explored the ruins of a castle built by a Spanish viceroy which stands on the site of Nero's villa; we compared it for beauty to the lonely temple of Serapis we had just left behind us near Pozzuoli, long buried beneath the sea, to be at last cast up by some mighty upheaval of unseen internal force. The beautiful, curved shore, "so beautiful yet so deadly," from the wilderness of craters which abound there, fascinated us completely. We lunched at a little inn at Baiae, where we had some of the famed wine of Basilipo and were amused by the importunities of the peasant beggars, who very successfully wheeled us out of our spare copers by their whines and wiles galore. In Egypt it was "backsheesh!" in our ears from morning till night; throughout Europe cries of "pour-boire" and "trinkgeld" haunted one's footsteps; but ancient little Naples had a word all her own. It was "Spaghett!" Simply that, and nothing more. No last syllable, with crisp accent; but the shortened, cut, "Spaghett!" was hurled at us from every corner and followed, with deafening echoes, our vanishing carriage wheels. "Spaghett! Spaghett!"

Beside the Lucerne we stood and conjured up the spot where the villa of Agrippina, mother of Nero, probably stood; but the thought of her cruel murder at the hands of her monster of a son did not mingle pleasantly with the peaceful lapping of the waves against the reeds, so we turned away and asked to be taken to the Grotto del Cano, or Dog Grotto, that amazing semicircle of animal bones and fears which year by year has drawn thousands of visitors to its rocky sides.

As if in keeping with its treacherous fame the guide who shows you the place is a full-fledged barker, who, "when work is slow," ekes out a subsistence by playing a guide. Ten to one he has a little dog at his heels, and thereby hangs a tale. While you listen to the guide the puppy looks at you with blinking eyes and a grin of confidence, the while his busy tail seems to say, "I know you'll never put me in that poisonous hole, will you?" And you can't keep your eyes off the silly little face, until you find yourself at home, your far-away "Buster," whose friendly face and welcome bark you have missed more than you would care to say. Certainly this idiotic little pup bears no outward resemblance to your far-away Buster; but inwardly—how about that? There lies a story. Shall you tell it to the guide? No, he's a brigand and might demand a ransom for permitting you to live; for no doubt he'd rather kill you outright than have you live to tell another story. Hurrah! now you've got it—happy thought! You'll try it on the dog. Fixing him with your eye you begin:

"The flea bothered my dog—so, I concluded I'd teach 'em a lesson! I learned long ago, but never put in practice. I sent and got a piece of liver and put it near the dog. The flea all hopped onto it and stuck. Just as I was getting ready to throw it in the fire I turned my back a moment and the dog ate the liver, flea and all. Now, he's flea lined."

But about the Dog Grotto. Well, it's filled with carbonic acid gas, and for generations guides have made money out of tourists by shoving some poor little canine into the cave and keeping him there until his legs began to totter and his head to whirl, when they would haul him out and douse him in the nearby lake until he revived; and revive he must, for was there not another tourist's carriage coming down the hill? But sometimes doggie didn't revive. Well, he was only a dog, and there had been instances where men had perished in the foul-smelling cave. But that was ages ago. There was a French king who brought a donkey to the grotto and tried the effect of the gas on him. The animal died. But why the king tried it on a donkey I don't know, unless that a fellow-feeling makes us—but, no—I won't. Then there was an early Spanish viceroy who wanted to decide whether the gas was in prime condition or not, so he put two of his slaves in the cave and they were brought out dead. Spoke well for the gas, at any rate.

Nowadays the question as to the virtue of the gas is more humanely settled. The guide takes a burning torch and plunges it into the cave. Instantly it goes out. But if the act is repeated several times the gas, impregnated with smoke, assumes the appearance of a silver sea, flowing in rippling waves against the black wall of the cavern. A good story is told of the guides of that region. As a matter of fact they are wholly unreliable, with their high-sounding names of this broken wall or that defaced inscription. It is said that they keep a little dog which they offer up as a sacrifice on the altar of the tourist's curiosity. "Shall I throw him in?" they will ask the visitor; and if he be of a humane disposition he will quickly reply, "Certainly not! What if you think I am?"

And the guide will say—making a shrewd guess—"I think you are American. Englees he say. 'Yaas, bah Jove, trow leetle beggar een!'" But once there came along an American, whom the guide took to be English, and when he asked, "Shall I trow leetle beggar een?" the American replied: "If you do, I'll throw your d-d carcass in after him!"

The thing to do while at Naples is to go to the pink coral grotto, so to the pink coral grotto we went. It lies between the Bay of Pozzuoli and that special little bay where Pliny kept his navy. We went out in a boat with four rowers, the chief of whom gave us large bunches of taffy about our country—"beeyuteeful America," "fine New York," etc.—he had traveled, oh, yes! he had been to Jib-later (Gibraltar) and to America—"beeyuteeful country!" etc., until it came time to return, when the fellow demanded that we pay them a franc each then and there, instead of the equivalent of ten cents each on the return to the shore. Upon refusal he worked himself up into a hysterical sort of paroxysm, and shrieked: "Not my shore! In de boat! In de boat! But my American nerve rose to the occasion and I flatly refused, notwithstanding that the situation began to get strained, to put it mildly. Sulkily he gave in, and gave the command to return to land, and slowly we were propelled—so slowly, indeed, that I had serious misgivings that we were to spend the night upon the darkening sea, while the muttered abuse of our country—"Vile country—people vil-lains—dirty New York—America all thieves!"—made me long to knock the rascal overboard and have done with him. However, as we approached the shore they became more civil and, as we alighted—glad to be back with a whole skin—they bowed and scraped, cap in hand, begging for a settlement at once. But no, the game was now in my hand, and marching up to the hotel I demanded of the manager how it was that he sent his guests out with a parcel of rascals and extortionists, terrifying hapless foreigners and indulging in foul abuse of their country, etc., etc. He rolled his eyes to heaven and protested that he knew nothing of such methods; they were honest fellows, and hard-working, and, by the Madonna and all the saints! he had no knowledge of such iniquities; it was incredible, impossible! etc., etc. "Here!" said I, "here is your money, according to the agreement I made with you. I will pay no extra extortion, nor be terrified into doing so. And, furthermore, for the protection of my countrymen, I will publish far and wide, I will print in every newspaper of America the name of your hotel and the rascally doings of your employees."

I got no further, for the fellow, with a howl of anguish, fell upon my knees and with clasped hands implored me not to "put it in de paper—not to ruin hem!"—hees famlee, dey starve! Do not put in de paper!"

Suppressing the laughter which his ridiculous terror evoked I consented to relent and peace was restored.

When we entered our carriage the rowers were waiting cap in hand, quite civil and ingratiating; but I ignored them completely, and we drove off, followed by a storm of curses and maledictions hurled at the American whom they found they couldn't bluff.

Return From Vacation.

These are the days when the city folks fly back to the unlovely town, deserting the country in the time of its greatest glory. September for some unreasonable reason marks the ending of the vacation time and the vacationists turn homeward to endure weeks of humid heat, more unpleasant in many ways than the July and August days, which they fled to the country to escape.

And yet nature is in its most delightful mood in September. The torrid heat of midsummer has given way to cool days and invigorating nights. The waving green is gone from the fields—save where the rustling corn stands, sentinel-like, awaiting the coming of the frost—and they are carpeted in gold and brown. In the woods, here and there, are seen flashes of the autumnal flame, which with October, will set all the trees aglow. The shortening days make up in beauty what they lack in length, with their flushed skies at dusk.

By contrast the city is a dreary place. The air is dead, the smoke trails low across the sky and the trees are half naked ragamuffins, their tattered garments of withered leaves fluttering forlornly. What is the reason? Is it hay fever or the opening of schools, or praisic necessities, are our summer clothes all worn out, forcing us to rush homeward there to unpack the habiliments of fall?—Chicago Evening Post.

SCHOOLS AT WORK ON REGULAR TIME

Some Confusion Because of Boundary Lines.

Boys and Girls Both Meet to Consider Athletics of the Year—The Plan.

Hard study was the rule today at the public schools, as the second day of the school year was disturbed but little, and the teachers and pupils had a profitable day. In some of the buildings rooms were overcrowded, but Superintendent J. A. Carnegie straightened this trouble out rapidly. In the Washington building there are pupils, who should attend other schools, and these when sent to the other buildings will eliminate the trouble. Somehow the pupils will go to the Washington building and overstep the school districts.

An increase of 204 is noted over last year in the public schools, making a total of 2,964 that entered yesterday. More pupils entered today and the figures will pass the 3,000 mark. In the high school there were 164 students, which is an increase. The pupils are distributed as follows: Washington building, 990; Lee, 241; Whittier, 208; McKinley, 185; Franklin, 239; Longfellow, 194; Jefferson, 270; Garfield, 369; Lincoln, 372.

Athletics.
The first step towards athletics was taken yesterday afternoon when a meeting was called on the first day of school. The high school boys met with Prof. W. A. Evans, of the science department, and talked over football. Edwin Mitchell was elected president of the athletic association. George Scott was elected manager of the team. This afternoon the mole skins were donned for the first time, and under the direction of Professor Evans, the coach light practice was indulged in. The girls also held a meeting and decided to begin work on basketball. There probably will be as many as five teams organized. Miss Adah L. Brazelton will have charge of the athletics of the girls. Miss Margaret Carnegie was elected president of the Girls' Athletic association, while Miss Katherine Rock will be secretary and treasurer. Miss Kathleen Garrow was elected manager of the basketball team.

Miss Susan Smith, teacher of modern languages, is ill in Brooklyn, but will be in Paducah in about a week. Miss Smith has returned from Europe but was taken ill and is unable to make the trip. Superintendent Carnegie received a letter yesterday afternoon.

Hearst and Higen Not Coming.

On account of other engagements Hearst and Higen, leaders of the Independence League parties, will not be able to accept the invitation of local leaders to speak in Paducah September 17. A letter was received by Mr. Joseph Desberger, national committeeman of Kentucky, yesterday that all speaking dates up until October 31 have been filled.

Important Fall Games on Gridiron Field.

New York, Sept. 15.—A scrutiny of the playing dates of the more important football teams of the east, west and south shows that Saturdays of October and November fairly bristle with games that will keep the interest of football fans on edge from week to week until the season closes in Philadelphia, November 28, with teams of the United States Naval and Military academies, ringing down the curtain for another twelve months.

Although the first contests of the fall are to be played on September 19, there will be little of moment in gridiron circles until the month of October. It will not be until the closing Saturday of September arrives that the majority of the big teams swing into line and play their first games. Even these are little more than practice affairs arranged by the managers in order that the coaches may be able to detect and rectify in actual play faults that would spell the undoing of the teams a month after. No better evidence of the calibre of these contests need be cited than the fact that the big teams play two games a week in many cases, Wednesday and Saturday being the most popular days for the practice struggles with the smaller college combinations.

The second stage of the season may be said to open this fall October 3, when Princeton University plays the Springfield Training school at Princeton and the team of Syracuse University travels to New Haven to test the early autumn metal of the Bulldog. A week later the games grow a trifle more important, and from the long list of contests scheduled the Princeton-Lafayette, Syracuse-Carlisle Indian, Williams-Harvard, Yale-Holy Cross and the Pennsylvania State vs. University of Pennsylvania games stand out as features.

The middle of the month brings still other struggles which will interest followers of the sport in all parts of the country. October 17 the Yale eleven will go to West Point to meet in annual gridiron battle the army football players. On the same day Cornell and Colgate will meet at Ithaca, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute team invades the field of the Tiger at Princeton; Pennsylvania and Brown are scheduled for Franklin Field, and in the middle west the representatives of the University of Chicago and Illinois will mingle on Marshall Field. These are the top-liners of the day, but some idea of the popularity of the game may be gathered from the fact that on the same afternoon there are no less than 194 other contests between college university teams, and were the games between high schools and academies counted, the total number of matches in all parts of the country would pass the 300 mark.

Football Feast.

The last two Saturdays of October begin to give a taste of the football feast to come. October 24 Colgate will play at West Point, Lafayette visits Brown at Providence, Dartmouth will be the guest of Holy Cross at Worcester, Syracuse, after playing Princeton, will be able to make comparisons between the strength of the Elis and the Tiger, while the Quakers will attempt to down their old and formidable rivals, the Carlisle Indians, on Franklin later. It will be Princeton's turn to tackle the Army on the Soldiers' Plateau overlooking the Hudson. The same day Brown will invade Cambridge in an attempt to overthrow the Harvardites. Dartmouth and Amherst will meet at Andover, Cornell and Pennsylvania State at Ithaca, Syracuse and Williams at Syracuse, Chicago and Minnesota at Chicago, Michigan and Vanderbilt at Ann Arbor, Pennsylvania and Swarthmore at Philadelphia, with 109 other games of minor calibre being fought out all over the country.

With the dawn of November the real championship contests approach. November 7 sees the final tryouts, in some cases, previous to the big games of the season. Yale will face Brown at New Haven, as is the custom a week previous to the Princeton contest. The Tigers, with Dartmouth as the opposing team, will demonstrate to the coaches their fitness to meet the Blue eleven weeks later. Harvard will try to retain its scalp with one hand and defeat the Carlisle red men with the other, and among the long list of games for the day the Syracuse-Co'gate, Wisconsin-Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Lafayette, Iowa-Illinois, Pennsylvania State-Backnell games stand out prominently.

Height of Season.

The following Saturday, November 14, marks the height of the football season. On that day Yale and Princeton play their annual games at Princeton, Dartmouth and Harvard meet in the imposing stadium on Soldiers' Field at Cambridge, and the eleven of Cornell and Pennsylvania will uphold the prestige of Eastern football in the two greatest intersection struggles of the year, meeting Chicago and Michigan, respectively. Of secondary interest on the same day will be the games between Brown and Vermont, Syracuse and Tufts and Virginia and Georgetown.

The struggle between Harvard and Yale at New Haven November 21 marks the waning of football for another year, both in the East and the west. The games begin to diminish in number even on this date, and few have the importance of those of the preceding week. Among those that stand out prominently, aside from the meeting of the Crimson and the Blue, are the games between Chicago and Wisconsin, Michigan and Syracuse, Williams and Amherst, Washington and Vanderbilt and the Navy and Virginia Poly.

Thanksgiving Day, which some years ago marked the climax of each gridiron season, has but few games to boast of this autumn. Pennsylvania and Cornell will meet in their annual struggle in Pennsylvania, and the Carlisle Indians will tackle the eleven of St. Louis University. Despite the fact that two days previous the red men will have faced the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis. With a lapse of but twenty-four hours, Franklin Field will again be the scene of a football game, this one the closing contest of the season, when the Army and the Navy teams line up for their yearly football battle before the thousands of spectators that gather annually to witness the stirring struggle between the two academy elevens.

The Struggle for Wealth.

When we compare the industrial energy of an Englishman or an American with that of an Arab, or a modern European with that of an ancient Greek, we can see hardly any limit to the variety of degree in which the love of wealth may stimulate human beings in action. Nor is it even the invariable associate of high intelligence and cultivation. On the contrary, classical and Oriental society abound with examples of high intellectual conditions, as religious society throughout the world abounds with examples of high moral condition and accumulation. In a word, the instinct and the habit of production are just as variable as human nature. Frederick Harrison.

TEN DAY TRIP FOR MR. TAFT

Will Start at Some Illinois Point and Go West.

Last Night Leaders Were Working on Same at Chicago—Will Be Announced.

HIS ITINERARY INCOMPLETE.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Ten days of traveling with almost constant speaking, have been arranged for Taft. The trip will be made in a special train starting from some Illinois point, probably Chicago, about September 25. The tour will extend as far north as Minneapolis and Fargo, N. D., as far south as several points in Kansas, and west to Denver. Taft will be back in Chicago in time to speak before the deep waterways convention October 7.

Taft's itinerary engaged the attention of Chairman Hitebeck, of the Republican national committee, as soon as he arrived here from New York. Political leaders were here to meet the chairman from North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Minnesota, Kansas, Tennessee, Wisconsin and Kentucky and representatives of several other states communicated with headquarters by long distance telephone.

Conferences in relation to the trip continued throughout the day. The announcement was made, however, that the itinerary will be made public. There is to be only one big meeting arranged for Taft in each state to be visited. At other points in the state through which the train runs Taft will show himself on the rear platform, talking wherever it is possible for him to do so.

Taft Writes Speeches.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Taft devoted himself principally to political composing. He wrote an answer to Bryan's comment on President Roosevelt's Taft letter, which in itself is regarded as furnishing a considerable addition to the campaign literature of the day, after which he spent the latter part of the day in the preparation of two speeches he is to make tomorrow, the first to a delegation from Greenfield, Ind., and the other to the Methodist negro preachers of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

PURYEAR

IS IN THE FIGHT FOR COMMON WEALTH'S ATTORNEY.

Paducah Will Make Speaking Dates Hereafter—At Gil-berville.

Candidates for circuit judge and commonwealth's attorney are speaking at Gilbertsville today and J. Will Graham, Populist nominee for congress, will also speak. Judge E. H. Puryear, candidate for commonwealth's attorney, who did not attend the speaking appointments of his opponent last week on account of private business, went out this morning and expects to be in the fight now until the campaign is over.

FIGHT CARRIED TO THE COURTS.

Chicago High School Fraternity Member Brings Test Case.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—The fight which is being waged by the Chicago High school fraternity members against the school board for the right to retain membership in secret societies was carried into court today.

Edward McDonald, the suspended pupil of Hyde Park High school, filed a petition in mandamus in the circuit court denying the right of the board to expel him for failure to sign a pledge renouncing his fraternity membership.

He was chosen by his fellow students of like opinion to make a test case. McDonald is one of the 52 students mentioned. Some have capitulated, but the majority will wait the result of the court proceedings inaugurated today.

WICKLIFFE CLUB

ORGANIZED WITH LARGE MEMBERSHIP SATURDAY.

Local Enthusiasts Form Taft and Sherman Club at the Ballard Capital.

Wickliffe, Ky., Sept. 15.—Responding to the call of County Chairman D. C. Tackett, the Republicans of Wickliffe and vicinity met at the court house Saturday night and organized a Taft and Sherman club, enrolling a large membership.

GOLDEN WEDDING SUICIDE.

Aged New York Couple, After Celebration, Inhale Gas.

New York, Sept. 15.—Victor and Louisa Trach, an aged couple who only a week ago celebrated their golden wedding, were found dead from gas today back of their little hop in Williamsburg. Gas tubes were found in the mouths of both, and they were clasped in each other's arms.

The aged couple had been dead for many hours when found. The manner in which the tubes were fastened in their mouths showed that they each had tied the tube for the other. The separate sections of tubing were suspended from a branch of two gas jets. The doors and windows had been fastened and cracks stuffed with pieces of rags and paper.

A week ago Sunday the pair had celebrated their golden wedding. A score of friends and relatives made merry with them back of the little shop. Afterwards all had a trip to Jones Island.

The celebration however, had been too much for the old lady and on Tuesday she fell ill. A doctor said she had an even chance for recovery, but her age was against her. When he old man heard this he declared that he would not live a day after Louisa's death. He closed his shop and nursed his wife day and night.

Surveying River.

Hickman, Ky., Sept. 15.—A United States survey party, in charge of L. L. Griffith, is making a survey of the river from Cairo, Ill., to the mouth of the Mississippi. There are about fifteen men in the party, and it is thought that the survey will be completed in a month or a little longer, and the charts will be corrected according to the report.

HUNDRED HAD CLOSE CALL.

Rock Island Train Rushes Across Burning Bridge at Top Speed.

Peoria, Sept. 15.—One hundred passengers on a Rock Island train bound for this city, narrowly escaped being dashed through a burning bridge into a gully fifty feet below between Toulon and Wyoming.

The train was running down a long grade and was going nearly forty miles an hour when on rounding a curve, the bridge was seen to be in flames. Engineer Dalzell, seeing the distance too short to stop, pulled on full speed and made a dash.

Examination of the structure afterwards showed that seventeen cross ties and some stringers had been burned nearly through.
